SOVIET ABANDONS PLAN TO START WORLD REVOLT

by people especially professional politicians, who are loath to ponder new facts, particularly when these run counter to their prejudices.

"SAME, BUT DIFFERENT"

From the first day of its existence the Soviet government protested against attempts to identify it with Communism.

Juridically these protests were irreconcilable, because despite their community of ideals, the two organizations, the Comintern and the International, and in their international founders and in their activities they remained as far apart as possible from each other.

But the statement of Europe and America were not reassured by this legalistic distinction. They cited the factual connection between the Soviet government and the Comintern.

The same people were at the head of both organizations. Neither Lenin nor his closest collaborators had any real leading participation in the life of the Comintern.

While the Soviet government of that period believed it possible to make very great material sacrifices for the sake of proletarian internationalism, it was not prepared to make any political sacrifices.

But that was the epoch of Lenin. Since the fourth congress of the Comintern, during this entire period only two major congresses have taken place, one in 1923.

It is five and a half years now since the congresses of the Comintern.

This has shrivelled internationalism, serves better than any other discussion of the actual state of affairs. During the first civil war, when the Soviet Republic was in its infancy, the Comintern paraded wire of blockade, and when the trip to the Soviet Union involved the only difference, but the dangers, the congresses convened.

The platonistic hopes for the world revolution are being expressed again.

But the platonistic hopes for the U.S.S.R. all the more fervently the more they are being renounced.

LENNIN'S RETORT

In this sphere concessions were considered even more important than the political, than the fundamental principles of the Soviet regime, its system of government, its policy of foreign trade, its production, the monopoly of foreign trade.

When Chicherin, in a letter to Lenin, hinted at the advisability of making concessions to the Comintern in order to save the suffocating position for the Soviet Republic, Lenin replied by letter to a counterproposal that Chicherin was confined to a sanatorium for a while in view of the breakdown of his political balance.

It is difficult to conceive how Lenin, in his capacity as Foreign Minister, could have held so bold as to suggest some concession or other to the Comintern, which was the Commissar of the Comintern.

It was the Comintern that was the Commissar.

During the Brest-Litovsk negotiations, the Comintern, in its eagerness of accepting the German ultimatum, Lenin reiterated time and again:

"It is insidious to shake the courage of the October revolution in the eyes of the German people. The salvation of the German revolution were concerned that we were to have the right to the fate we would have to assure the fate of the Soviet Republic, because the Comintern is the Comintern, and our fate is the Comintern."

Therefore the Comintern, the Comintern, the Comintern, incommensurably more important than our fate.

Undoubtedly, the other leaders of the Soviet Republic looked at the matter in the same way. In this matter, the Comintern's articles were simply quoted as orders from the Comintern to the Soviet government and the Comintern. Therefore the Comintern, the Comintern, the Comintern failed to react to the demands of pure; they referred to the Comintern.

A CHANGED RUSSIA

However, much water has gone under the bridge since the time when the Comintern's articles and its closest co-workers were the definition of the Soviet Republic and the Comintern.

Circumstances have changed, people have changed, the ruling situation has changed, but the Comintern has not. But instead, there remains preserved intact the Comintern's articles and statements of the past based on recollections, as to the insidious influence of the Comintern on the Soviet government and the Comintern.

It is time this view is rejected. In this matter, the world is torn by contradictions, there are far too many contradictions to be satisfied with artificial reasons for fanning the flames.

It is time to understand that despite the Comintern's articles, it is played on holiday occasions, the Soviet government and the Comintern, the Comintern and the workers' movement as a whole.

The most the U.S.S.R. strengthens its international position, the deeper becomes the Comintern and the Soviet government and the international revolutionary struggle.

The Comintern was its concern, unashamedly assumed in Moscow, and the Comintern's change of international experience and the clash between various tendencies were reflected in the basic programmatic viewpoints and the tactical methods.

BROADCAST THE REPORT

Copies of the Macmillan report are to be supplied to members of the legislature of Alberta, and no doubt to members of the legislatures of the other provinces also. They should be made easily available as well as the public from one end of Canada to the other.

This is a "key" document, dealing with a subject that is of first importance, concerning which there is a wider and keener interest than there ever was before, and on which it is to be taken by parliament which will powerfully affect the course of private business and public affairs for a decade. While the official summary has been widely published, and is a comprehensive review of the finding, thousands of people will want to study the report itself and preserve it for future reference.

If the Dominion finances will not permit free publication and distribution, the report should be placed on sale in book stores everywhere at a price only high enough to cover costs. With a little pushful publicity the report can be made the "best seller" of the year in Canada.

SOME REAL INFLATION

The latest disclosure at Washington is the most spectacular of a series of enlivening exposures that has been made since the Senate investigating committee began hitting lids in the back lanes of high finance.

An enterprising group of bankers bought a motor car manufacturing concern for $150,000,000. But they did not pay for it. They hoisted the capitalization and sold the public enough stock to pay for the property, then they sold it to another company and gathered in more than thirty millions of dollars for stock costing them nothing.

The figures are startling. But there is nothing new in the procedure. It is merely a specimen of the "fineness" that is practised in that branch of modern banditry which does its plundering on a wholesale scale.

The same thing has been done times without number in Canada as in the United States during the last twenty years. And it is only natural to concern making motor cars and other luxuries, but in respect to enterprises turned out to be making prime necessities of life.

That is one reason why it is hard today to get people to put money into commercial undertakings; a reason why the cost of living is high, and the cost of living is unduly high; a reason why we are in a bind and liable to stay there; and a reason why communism, socialism and radicalism are being preached daily in every centre of thought in Canada.

If people in the provinces and the legislatures have any proper sense of responsibility to the investing public, to the consuming public, or to the preservation of peace, order and good government, they cannot start any too soon to squeeze the infiltration of Canadian stock issues and to establish negotiations with the United States to stop racketeering in the stock markets. Most of our highly protected industries are notoriously watered and pay their workers the lowest wages in Canada.

"MINOR" RECOMMENDATIONS

Beside recommending the establishment of a central bank, the Macmillan commission dealt with three other matters. These are of minor importance only because a properly-managed central bank could accomplish the purposes in view.

The commissioners compliment the chartered banks on the "security, efficiency and convenience" that they afford them to meet the unsettled times, but offer them some good advice on subjects running all the way from showing mercy to honest customers to preventing bank directors from getting into difficulties where credits to themselves or their firms are being considered. Tended and acted upon three years ago, this advice might have made the banks more popular than they are at present, stayed the landslide of deflation, and fore-stalled the wide demand for drastic changes in the financial mechanism.

A central bank, by framing regulations which must be complied with in the use of credit supplied by it, could eliminate from the conduct of the commercial banks most if not all the grounds for criticism the commission refers to.

It is a "recommendation" of a Dominion provincial investigation be made, with a view to creating some plan under which short and intermediate term loans may be secured by farmers. The point of this recommendation is "The independence of many farmers appears to be such that the considerable rise of agricultural prices would not be sufficient to warrant the extension of new credit through ordinary channels." That is a self-proving proposition.

A central bank could be made the agency for putting through a re-financing scheme for farmers who are loaded down with more debt than there is any chance of them paying off at the present high rates of interest. The same kind of arrangement other farm creditors should favor this, for they stand to lose along with their debtors if it is not done.

There is nothing in the report to suggest direct action to reduce interest rates on private loans, but the report of the commissioners on the subject of the state which forbids banks to charge more than 7 per cent interest. But they all agree that if this prohibition is to stand, the clause should be re-worded, made to mean what it was evidently intended to mean, and that powers should be provided for the punishment of any party concerned in its violation.

A central bank, if it is to be of any particular use to the country, will have to regulate interest rates. The terms on which money is to be loaned to consumers the banks can and should be made to govern the rates they can collect from those to whom they re-lend the credit.

The Passing Show

By J. S. CONPER

In Los Angeles last week a judge of the Superior Court sent a 19-year-old girl to the penitentiary for life. She came from a good home, has honest and respectable parents, is intelligent, with a high sense of humor, and is a good mother. She had wanted to taste the glamor of life among the underworld characters she had seen in the movies. She married an ex-convict, took part with him in a life of delinquency. In one of which she shot him for life, a son of 10 years old, and her husband had resisted his attack to her. She was with her husband when police officers cornered him in an apartment and killed him in the shooting that followed. She had with her all the time in the raw. There may have been some truth in her defense that her husband forced her in her defense that her husband forced her to commit the crime.

It was when a good-looking nineteen-year-old girl in such a home would have been written up by the sub-sister, slobbered over, made a newspaper heroine and been cheered as she left the court to accept a movie or vaudeville engagement.

The girl, however, was a juvenile delinquent.

It was when a 19-year-old girl to the penitentiary.

There are yet others who feel that all young people who commit violent crimes should be pitied rather than punished.

The talk of the juvenile authority to have greater than ever responsibility for the greater than ever crime.

The number of young people who commit serious crimes is appalling. It is now an exception to have before the court a person of many years of age, rather than a boy of 16.

These young criminals must be made to realize that if they commit serious crimes they may pay the penalty, and that they will not be pitied, but rather be condemned and told not to do it again, and then sent on their way with no more than kindly advice.

That should act as a deterrent to romantic youngsters in Los Angeles with whom they are becoming more and more familiar.

It is the girl bandit who will probably get more sympathy than the unfortunate young woman blinded for life because she would have over come her desire to be a career thief.

There is no hope of stemming the movies. The bandit is able to handle the germ, but there is no hope of ever getting rid of the germ.

Of the millions who have had light attacks, only a few whose resistance is low ever actually succumb to tuberculosis of the lungs and the healthy body is well able to overcome the germ.

After the germs are in the body, it is first a constitutional disturbance, then the glands are infected.

BOW! Wow! Wow! Here's big news for all the girls and boys in Edmonton! The Ed. Girls' Spring will be a dog show. If ever one hears about one, never before has it been in Vancouver held a most successful show, and made it clear that no dog can be a show dog unless it has a pack of pedigree or fancy ancestry. All the Poodles and Blackies and Chihuahuas and Dandies and Chihuahuas and Chihuahuas were as welcome as the flowers in May. The show was a howling vagabond with one limp ear and a tail that was as enthusiastic as a tail. A dog was entered by some unknown master or mistress.

A dog show in which the dogs "love" rather than the dog "dog" bought the show. The dogs, as the main attraction should indeed be an unusual and interesting show. We know that whether it is not blue bows, artificial curl and colored knitted jackets or not, there is one dog that wears a jacket on cold days, but we are not sure that the jackets of our set that are thus pampered have the grace to look dignified in the show ring. We have one friend, too, who has tried to make a dog show a success, but he got it so bad, we know that he is not welcome.

We admit to a large, if not dubious, amount of knowledge, but we know a lot of little fellows that come running to one when they enter the show ring. We present one and then the other chuffed to bits, and we are welcome and wanted.

We wonder if our friends at the corner will enter his "spitz-anized" dog in the show. Will tricks count, we wonder? Because Mickey will sit up and look round when he is asked to do the offing. We think he should get a special prize, too, for waiting patiently in the show ring on muddy days, and holding each paw in turn for a cleaning because he is allowed to go in the show ring with its freshly polished floors.

S. A. Gordon Barnes Again Heads School Board

VETERAN TRUSTEE RESUMES CONTROL AFTER 18 YEARS

Standing Committees Are Named for New Year's Work at Tuesday Night's Inaugural Meeting.

S. A. Gordon Barnes, veteran school trustee, who has held a seat on the Edmonton School Board for 20 years, for more than 20 years, was elected chairman of that body for 1934 at the inaugural meeting, Tuesday night. It is 18 years since he last occupied the chair, Trustee Barnes had the floor.

After formal declarations of officers were signed by the newly elected trustees, Dr. Walter Morrish being the only new member, taking the place of L. Y. Clegg, who was elected to the board but did not stand for reelection, the board adopted a 10-minute motion of thanks "to Dr. Walter for his appointment as a chairman. In the final tally, Mr. Barnes was elected by a vote of 10 to 9.

W. D. Ferris received the first nomination from Dr. F. W.
Cragg, but declined, stating that he had been elected to the board in the New Year and felt it unsporting to accept the office to see the election through.

Mr. Ottewell nominated Dr. Clegg but he refused, saying he had to go around, and nominated Trustee S. Bowcott, who declined on the grounds that those of Mr.
Ferris and kept the ball rolling by naming Mr. Barnes.

Trustee F. C. Caselman, who was elected but fired first back with a counter nomination.

Dr. Merrish, originally a board member, met his trustee fate, however, when he was elected by a vote of 9 to 8. Mr. Barnes occupied that position two years ago
and Trustee Barnes 18 years ago.

On his election, Mr. Barnes thanked the trustees for the honor given him. He commented: "It is a great privilege to be elected as a trustee, but I would like to get the credit for the work done."

The people at Allelante like Mr.
Clegg and would like to get him elected again.

I suggested that we could keep in a two-room school by admitting the first six grades of the first year to one room.

Standing committees were named at the meeting, the first named being the chairman.

School management: Mrs. Ferris,
Mrs. Merrish.

Finance: Ottewell, Merrish.

Buildings and grounds: Bowcott,

Clegg, Barnes, Supply: Merrish.

Supervision: Clegg.

Conference: Caselman, Bowcott.

African payment: Mr. Ottewell.

Expenditure of cash: Mr. Ottewell.

Expenditure of the school board:
Mr. Ottewell.

TRUSTEE HAS NEW PLAN TO FILL SCHOOL

If there are not enough children to fill a school, find means to make the district the plan of A.
L. Ottewell, public school trustee.

This remarkable suggestion came out of a report at Tuesday night's board meeting, by G. A. McKeeown, president of the school trustees.

Trustee Barnes, 18 years ago,
occupied that position two years ago
and Trustee Barnes 18 years ago.

On his election, Mr. Barnes
thanked the trustees for the honor
given him. He commented: "It is

GRID PROTEST TO BE DECIDED BY PRESIDENT

Manitoba Football Body Calls Upon Chief To Award Title

WINNIPEG, Nov. 15.—In a telegram yesterday Tuesday night to Mr. Lieberman, of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Football Union, the executive of the Manitoba Football Union called upon him to award the western junior championship to the Winnipeg Dier Doves.

The junior final was played in Calgary last Saturday, the Alouettes of Alberta and the Dier Doves of Dier Doves 11-8. Dier Doves protested against the decision of the referee, Mr. W. J. McLean, of Brandon, Manitoba, attending the W.C.R.U. games in Winnipeg, had wired to Calgary to demand that the Manitoba referee be ignored.

ENDOWMENT TEST

The Dier Doves protest was endorsed by the Manitoba Executive Committee Tuesday night, and the following wire was sent to Mr. Lieberman:

"At a meeting of the M.R.F.U. Tuesday we unanimously endorsed Dier Doves' protest and their decision to limit the appointment of Abraham as referee. We will be in touch with you as soon as the result of the protest is ruling any of Abraham's decisions in the game. In our opinion there is no alternative but to award the game to Dier Doves."

Number Eleven Altomah Grid Player's Luck

CALGARY, Nov. 15.—Since last Saturday's grid battle with Winnipeg Deer Lodge, the number "11" has been replaced by Eddie Wares, fullback of the Calgary Altomahs in his last number.

There were 11 other men on the field at the start of the game. He took part in the scoring of every point, except the first, his sweater number was 11. Eleven minutes before the game ended he was pulled from the field to make a break at the tie with the Deer. During the game the card became to be known as the "grid card."

Then Eddie realized the game was played on Nov. 11. Going still further he counted the letters of his name, Eddie, and found they added to 11.

Saturday night he waited to celebrate the victory with his team. But even his father's orders didn't break the jinx. Eddie had to be home by 11 o'clock.
